INTERESTED?

To take history courses, pursue a minor, or major in history, call Laura Merlot at (603) 862-1764 to arrange a conversation with a history professor—in person, by email, or by telephone.

You can also learn more about history course offerings, major requirements, and faculty members on the History Web page of www.unh.edu/history/index.html.

CALL TODAY AND CHOOSE HISTORY

TELL US A STORY FROM HISTORY

"I spent a career or more than a quarter century working in a large corporation, and I was surprised to find out that I had been working in a company that was part of the history of the United States. It wasn't until I went through some of the old records that I realized just how much that company had contributed to the development of the country."

-Richard Horne, President of ABC Corporation

STUDY THE PAST & PREPARE FOR YOUR FUTURE

UNIVERSITY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

UNH HISTORY ALUMNI

In 1970, UNH History alumni over 2,000 years old, the first writing system ever invented, was lost to human memory. In the last 150 years, scholars have discovered and investigated these documents, thereby restoring several major ancient cultures. It's not as exciting as you might think, but it's a great way to learn about history."

-Steven M. Brown, Professor of History

Design Your Own Major

UNH STUDENTS

STUDYING HISTORY AT UNH

OFERS YOU SMALL CLASSES WITH

PRIZE-WINNING PROFESSORS,

OPPORTUNITIES TO DO

ORIGINAL RESEARCH,

AND THE CHANCE TO

CREATE YOUR OWN MAJOR.

TELL US A STORY FROM HISTORY.

"The University of New Hampshire is an equal opportunity educator and employer.

The University of New Hampshire is an equal opportunity educator and employer."
A SOLID INTRODUCTION
In History 500, you read five path-breaking history books, discuss them in seminars, and learn how to write critical essays about them. You meet individually with your professor to develop your writing skills. At the end of the semester, you write an essay based on one of these books and have the opportunity to ask him or her about the experience of doing the research and writing the essay.

UNH HISTORY
CLASS ARE SMALL
The means you work closely with professors who have won teaching awards for teaching and doing research in their fields. Your foundation courses and your senior seminar will have no more than 15 students. The average size of the 10 major history courses at UNH is 27 students, and the 600-level courses is 10.

TELL US A STORY FROM HISTORY
With the backing of English and French, American historians are able to discover the historical roots of the American people. "Read the story" is the goal, but the focus is on the history of the American people. The story explores the history of the Revolutionary War, the early American history of the United States, and the American history of the United States. The story brings you to the present day, and the story explores the history of the United States in the 19th century. The story explores the history of the United States in the 19th century.

MAKE SOME HISTORY
At UNH, you can begin by doing history. Whether you choose to focus on a specific period or a specific region, you will work closely with historians to develop your research skills. In each of your 400 and 500-level courses, you will have completed essays to develop the research and writing skills necessary for your senior project. You may also have an opportunity to work on an independent study.

FOR THE RECORD
UNH history professors have published more than 50 books, and, in the past five years alone, many have received national and international prizes and awards. They have won national and international prizes and awards. They bring their research and writing skills to their teaching. In the past decade, history professors have won six major national and international prizes and awards.

Jeffrey McPhee, associate professor, researching Roman history in Rome, traveled with a particular focus on the history of late antique women during the 4th century. He has also written about the history of the social and political history of the Roman Empire of the 4th century.

SENIORwriting a paper on the French Revolution and the American Revolution.

OLD TIME HISTORY
Great Britain, the United States, and the United States in the 19th century.