December 8, 2015 the Prevention Innovations Research Center (PIRC) will be celebrating its designation as a research center at the University of New Hampshire with an OPEN HOUSE from 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. There will also be a DEDICATION of the Susan Schecter Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Social Justice Lab within the Center and the presentation of the first PIRC Practitioner Award to Kathy Beebe, an outstanding New Hampshire practitioner nominated for her vision and accomplishments as a leader in ending sexual and domestic violence in New Hampshire.

With more than 20 researcher and practitioner associates, Prevention Innovations Research Center has gained national acclaim for its sexual assault and domestic violence prevention and response research and development and its impact on practice, policy and scholarship.
Confirmed speakers include:
• University of New Hampshire President, Mark Huddleston,
• Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Kenneth Fuld
• Associate Vice Provost for Innovation and New Ventures, UNH Innovation, Marc Sedam
• PIRC Directors, Sharyn J. Potter and Jane Stapleton

Reporters are welcome to attend the event.
