UNH Annual Dance Company Concert
March 26-30

For Immediate Release
March 4, 2014: Durham, NH-

The UNH Dance Company presents a dance concert featuring ballet, jazz, tap and aerial, March 26-30, 2014 in the UNH Johnson Theatre. The concert features original adaptations of “Peter and the Wolf” and “Alice in Wonderland.”

Against his grandfather's wishes, brave Peter sets out to capture a wolf. Along the way he encounters some animal friends and becomes the hero of his village. Based on a popular Russian children's story and set to Prokofiev's world-famous score, this is a magical introduction to classical music and ballet, choreographed and directed by Susan Endrizzi. In addition, Endrizzi choreographed a second piece from the first movement of Prokofiev's "Piano Concerto No.3." This abstract contemporary ballet piece shows the diversity of Prokofiev's music, when compared to the more traditional “Peter and the Wolf.”

Professor Gay Nardone created a jazz/tap/aerial interpretation of the classic story of “Alice in Wonderland” about a girl named Alice who falls down a rabbit hole into a fantasy world populated by peculiar, anthropomorphic creatures. The lines of reality versus fantasy are blurred as Alice desperately tries to find her way back home.

The UNH Dance Concert runs March 26-29 at 7:00 p.m. and March 30, at 2:00 p.m. in the UNH Johnson Theatre. There is a school matinee on Friday, March 28, at 10:00 a.m. All tickets are $7.00. Call 603-862-0298 for details.
