UNH to Showcase Student Talent
In Theatre & Dance

For Immediate Release
April 16, 2013: Durham, NH-

Students showcase their work in musical theatre, dance and aerial dance, April 30, May 1 and May 7 at UNH. All proceeds benefit Theatre and Dance scholarships.

April 30 at 7:00 p.m., students studying Musical Theatre will present songs and numbers from popular Broadway musicals in the Hennessy Theatre. These will include solos and ensemble song and dance pieces. Minimal costumes and props help to place focus on each student, as he or she performs personal favorites. Tickets are $3.50.

May 1 at 7:00 p.m., students studying the aerial arts will spin and twirl, showcasing their athleticism, grace and fearlessness high above the Newman Dance Studio on fabric, trapezes, and the lyra, a circular hoop that looks like a hula hoop. If you have never been to a Cirque De Soliel production, this is a great way to see this dance form in an intimate setting. UNH is the only university in the nation offering aerial dance as part of a liberal arts degree program. Tickets are $3.50.

May 6 at 7:00 p.m., students studying Dance will have the opportunity to select their own music, costuming and dance partners in an evening of jazz, tap, ballet and theatre dance in the Johnson Theatre. Solos, trios, ensembles, and a couple of large cast numbers will be featured, as dancers select and perform material that has special meaning to each of them. Tickets are $5.00.
