Program for Prospective Non-Health Education Degree Students Entering the UNH M.Ed. Program Leading to a Health Teaching Certification

Undergraduate prerequisite courses would have to be taken as a continuing education student before being admitted to the graduate program.

Prerequisite UNH Undergraduate Courses

NUTR 400 – Nutrition in Health & Well Being (4 credits) [offered fall, spring or summer]
KIN 648 – Contemporary Issues in Health (4) [fall]
KIN 712 – Health Education Practicum (4) [spring]
FS 746/846 – Human Sexuality (4) [spring on campus, or summer or J-term online]

Additional Courses Required for Certification at the Undergraduate Level

EDUC 751B/851B Educating Exceptional Learners (4)

The UNH Graduate Master's in Education (M.Ed.) program requires five graduate courses, plus a full-year teaching internship – This is for Health teaching certification, K-12 in NH.

A grad application is required (online) – You must have an undergraduate cumulative GPA above 3.0 from your previous institution.

You must pass the PRAXIS Core exam (Reading, Writing and Math) before applying.

Requirements for the M.Ed. Program

EDUC 800 Educational Structure and Change (4) [fall, spring or summer]
EDUC 801 Human Development & Learning/Ed.Psych. (4) [fall, spring or summer]
EDUC 805 Contemporary Ed. Perspectives (4) [fall, spring or summer]

KIN 802 – Content and Youth Risk Behaviors (4) [fall online]
KIN 910: Curricular Issues in Health Pedagogy (4) [summer online]

Required Internship (Two full 15-week semesters student teaching):

EDUC 900 fall (Middle School) /901 spring (High School) Internship and Seminar in Teaching Health (6 credits each semester).