The most pressing matters of our time — migration, climate change, violent conflict, human rights, economic globalization, epidemics — transcend national boundaries and require a global response. The international affairs (IA) program will equip you to take on these global challenges through rigorous, interdisciplinary coursework, second language study and a rich international experience. Combine the IA dual major or minor with any other major on campus and graduate as a critically-minded and responsible global citizen ready to contribute meaningfully to the world.
“IA was an integral part of my UNH experience as going abroad was the best experience I had throughout school. I met my closest, lifelong friend abroad on top of exploring immaculately diverse geographies and people. It pushed me outside my usual stagnant boundaries to adventures I never would’ve thought possible.”
